Dear Ms Messer:

Congratulations. I am proud of the work that you have performed as part of the Delta Stewardship Council. Why... because I know first hand how challenging politics, perseverance, and public sector public relations can impact the constitution.

First, neither Lisa Jackson nor the governor Jerry Brown is going to send you a commendation for the environmental impact report. This artery is the vital life blood to millions of lives which consume the majority of the Colorado River and Sierra Nevada runoff. 1994 was devastating and most recently the Santa Clara River experienced a major chlorine discharge.

Secondly, a balance between agriculture, the many species of fish indigenous to the waterways must be considered as manifest destiny takes precedent with significant influence under the authority of the Metropolitan Water District. Thus, at what cost does society dollar cost average to insure that California's economy retains steady growth? The answer is supply and demand and based on the validity of the impact report itself I am inclined to pursue the side of a safer more cost effective infrastructure as compared to some environmental components.

Lastly, the impact report was just a cog in the wheel with respect to compliance and legality. The end result of acceptance is no indication of the stewardship and the council over the past three years.

Once again, thank you for your time and consideration for the dissemination and work completed.

Respectfully,

DONALD A. CLYTUS
