Taking large volumes of fresh Sacramento River water down to southern California via two 35 ft diameter sub Delta tunnels will do permanent, and perhaps, unrecoverable damage to the already challenged Delta freshwater ecosystem. We all know what happened to the Owens River and the southern Colorado River as a result of SoCal interests taking those rivers precious fresh water. We cannot let this happen to the beautiful Sacramento/San Joaquin River Delta. The BCDP cloaks its motives in ecological preservation and protecting the levees.

But we are not fooled. The main reason for the tunnels is to provide more fresh water to SoCal developer and agribusiness interests, so that they can make more money. Obviously, those billionaires have a lot of political power. But please don't sacrifice our beautiful Delta to their unquenchable greed.

Sincerely,
Alan Bargman M.D.
