Hello,

I am a Delta resident for over 45 years. I own a Large Marina on the Delta. When Brown's Father tried this canal, it did not work then many years ago.

We actually have a solution for this issue. We have completed extensive surveys and other due Diligence.

Our PLAN is:

Looking at Google earth, you will see that there is several locations along the Coast of California that can support our Solution. First, there are two large water lakes in the hills next to the Coast that empty into the existing Water Canal. We propose Desalinization plants to feed fresh Water into the lakes as storage. We don't need a new Canal and to destroy the Delta when we already have it in place. These plants, running from Solar and wind power will supply all the Water So. California needs, and into the future. The cost will be substantially lower than 2 tunnels.

With the Lakes already there, along with the Canals, this would be an easy way to supply water and not ruin the Delta.

Please contact me for additional information.

Thank you,
